Smartcase

The smarter tool for total claims management.

Do you have a handling process that combines good principles of project management with case and strategy planning where interactions take place remotely using collaborative technology? Would you like a process where all those with an interest in a claim or issue can be brought together to make decisions and plan ahead, without anyone leaving their workplace?

We believe Smartcase will make handling large personal injury cases more efficient and cost effective. It is a concept which brings together a project management approach to cases, enabled by a number of technologies. It allows us to better plan and execute the varied tasks associated with such claims, and to enhance interactions between all participants. Collaboration tools, quantum management software, document management and risk analysis all combine with the structure of the project-style approach to deliver better and faster outcomes.

Smartcase is just one of the smart tools available from BLM Innovations. It delivers a number of key benefits to those underwriting, or with exposure to, motor and casualty risks where claims for serious personal injury damages may be made, by:

- Removing cost and delay at key stages of a large personal injury case by using technology
- Focusing on bringing all key stakeholders together and avoiding linear communications to improve decision making. This also enhances stakeholder engagement and customer service
- Improving evidence collection, quantum overview, and risk for reserving and settlement. This also provides better processes for earlier identification of settlement opportunities.

Key features

- Identification of a claim's value for reserving or settlement
- A new approach to handling large personal injury cases, with a core project-managed process supported by technology 'enablers'
- Facilitation of numerous interactions and decision making between BLM and its clients.

Smart new tools for experienced legal minds.
